Internet Safety and Digital Citizenship: Disconnect in a Connected World

This presentation will help parents and educators who might feel disconnected from their children's online activities to become more aware of important issues related to internet safety, while equipping them with tools for helping children develop positive digital citizenship habits.

Strategies for encouraging children to make safe choices about the kinds of information they share, and where/with whom they share it.

Tips for encouraging discussion about online safety at home and in school.

A brief look at emerging legislation about cyberbullying and digital citizenship will help inform parents and educators about the long and short term legal consequences of online actions and offer them a framework for explaining why this topic of conversation is so important in today's increasingly connected world.
