Good evening,

Given the significant hostility surrounding the potential closure of OLP and/or Phoenix, an alternative suggestion may be to consider closing one of the two buildings at either St. Paul or St. Vincent.
Rezoning students from these schools could be a much simpler process, as the schools are in proximity to one another. Additionally, Genesis and Jules Verne are nearby and could also be considered as potential options for accommodating rezoned students.
This approach could minimize disruption for students and families, particularly by avoiding the additional 20–30 minutes of bus travel that students might otherwise face going from OLP to Souvenir.
This suggestion may provide a more practical and less contentious alternative to closing OLP and/or Phoenix.

Just food for thought.
Good luck ! Not an easy task.

Thank you,
Kind regards
